

Hole in Head's House!

Sunday 19th November 2017

By Evie Wise

A meteorite strikes a school in Cambridge

Late on Sunday evening (19th November) Mr and Mrs Hellinwell were watching the News when they heard a loud bang in their dining room. When they walked in they saw a hole in the roof and directly below a stone in their dog's Mollie's basket. The school think it is a meteorite.

Luckily Mollie wasn't in her basket when it happened because she was doing her nightly rounds of the garden. When she came in she headed straight for her basket and was very surprised to find a large rock in it. "It made a big mess," said Mrs Hellinwell.

Oh we have a hole!

"I'm relieved it didn't do any damage to the new STEAM hub," said Mr Brent.

What is this?

The head of science Mrs Price is very excited and wants it put up in the STEAM Hub.

Mr Hullyer the Head of Maintenance said it was very hard to find builders to repair the roof on a Sunday, so I only did temporary repairs.

The meteorite has be sent off to the University of Cambridge for an analysis to the Department of Astrophysics and Astronomy. We won't know the results until next year.