

METEORITE FLIES TO HELLIWELL'S HOUSE.

Friday 24th November

At St Faith's School in Cambridge a terrible incident happened. It emerged on Sunday 19th November at 10:20 at the headmaster's house. Mr Helliwell, Mrs Helliwell and their Long-Haired Irish Jack Russell dog Molly were incredibly scared.

When they were watching the news on the TV they heard a deafening crash and went to take a quick look. They had expected it to be a fallen tree or something like that.

There was a massive hole from the roof directly above Molly's brown fur basket. A hard rock had landed in the brown fur basket. The rock was about 10cm across and was thought to be a meteorite. Luckily Molly was outside in the fresh air when it happened so she didn't get injured. When Molly heard the bang from outside she was quite shocked and came in to have a little sniff of it.

Meteorites normally burn before they hit the earth but sometimes, rarely ever, they shoot down to the earth without burning and hit the earth.

The rock has been sent to Cambridge University to be identified and studied meanwhile repairs are being made at Mr and Mrs Hellinell's house.
