

Congratulations

During the Christmas holiday we received the wonderful news that Izzie Allanson (6C) has won the RSPB Wild Verse Poetry competition in the 8-12's age category. Izzie's poem, I Wonder, has been published on the RSPB website www.rspb.org.uk/wildverse.

I Wonder by Izzie, age 10

You know how you can feel
That the whole world is pushing down on you?
But there is that one place
That makes you feel special,
like no one else is there
apart from you.
My place is outside a sleepy town.
Me and Dad walking through A faded forest, feeling the cold wind
on our faces.
I wonder if you can picture this?
Trees, their bark a bitter black,
their leaves all shades
of red, orange and gold.
We found branches and bracken for a shelter
Cupped blackberries in our hands,
Watching the leaves falling,
From a great height.
In the distance, across a muddy field
A crow was calling.
Soon it was time to go.
The wind wound round us
As we were running home.
