

Cambridge Year 4 Maths Challenge

As the Headmaster mentioned last week, it was with great pleasure that we yet again hosted the Cambridge Year 4 Maths Challenge.

Around 30 schools from all over the region took part, with 240 young mathematicians throwing themselves wholeheartedly into an afternoon of puzzles and challenges. The school was well represented by Navya Bhasin and Hamish Carnegie, Artem Frakin and Harry Gorick, Charlie Sheldrick and Sophie Rainsford, Saachi Kang and Jack Carnegie.

The whole event was supported by a group of our Year 6 pupils, who were responsible for the marking. They received many favourable comments from the adults that had come along to watch, including the main organiser of the event who mentioned that they “were superb, with many showing mature initiative for their age”.

The afternoon was topped off with cookies and juice and we look forward to doing it all again next term, when we host a Year 6 Maths Challenge.
