

Is this a new tab | view before me,
A mouse pointer hovering near thy vacant search bar? Come, let me append thee.

| can manoeuvre the mouse not, to click on thee,

Yet | see thee still.

Art thou image, | long to add to, enterable,

Or art thou an apparition of the mind,

Withdrawn from the over-concentrating, wistful brain,

To de-focus me from my work?

Thou vision continues intriguing mine eye contact,

Wonderful for the prospect of mine freedom

Obtained with several presses of the keyboard.

Shalt mine undecided thoughts betray mine moral

And succumb to the immense lure to the unknown?

It shalt be the possibilities circulating the mind

Which draw thee to mine eyes...

An enter key materialises

The decision is made

To explore with mine own freedom,

Wherefore responsibility can wait.
