

Year 6 English

Class 6F have been looking at extended metaphors and Katie (6B) came up with the idea of a pencil case being like a bus and the items in it being different characters. Here is her imaginative poem.

Stationary Traffic

Rulers are strict teachers,
They straighten things out,
The calculator solves problems
And quickly too.

The highlighter, always positive,
He wears a bright smile and bright clothes,
The rubber is negative,
And throws his chances away.

A protractor is a detective,
A new angle to look at.
The compass is forgetful.
She goes round in circles.

Pencil sharpeners give confidence

And scissors are bullies,
Felt tips are good
At giving speeches

And the glue stick,
The bus driver
The one who always gets stuck
In stationary traffic!